

TI-FRIS Transferable Skills Training Program Lecture Course on Academic Impact

The 24th FRIS Seminar

Purpose of the course
 Tohoku Initiative for Fostering Global Researchers for Interdisciplinary Sciences (TI-FRIS) supports young researchers in publishing articles in top journals. As part of this, TI-FRIS offers this course for young researchers to create world-class academic impact. This lecture in the course will be held also as a seminar at the Frontier Research Institute for Interdisciplinary Sciences, and the content of the lecture will be widely shared with researchers.

What is Research Impact?

/ Creating a High Research Impact Plan

Dr. Rintaro OHNO

Senior Assistant Professor, Strategic Planning Office, Tohoku University

Biography:
 Dr. Rintaro Ohno graduated from Würzburg University (Germany), then completed the doctoral program at the Graduate School of Information Sciences, Tohoku University, and obtained a Ph.D. He experienced as a lecturer in charge of mathematics exercises and international student tutors at the Würzburg University, a part-time lecturer in German at Tohoku University and a part-time lecturer in English at Tohoku Gakuin University. Since 2016, he has been a specially appointed lecturer in the IR team of Tohoku University. He has been in his current position since 2019 due to the integration of the IR team with Strategic Planning Office.
 His work includes collection and analysis of IR data, evaluation-related work, English translation, public relations support, mathematics education, etc.
 He received the Best Presenter Award at AAIR (Australasian Association for Institutional Research) Forum 2020. His academic specialty is geometric function theory.

10:00-11:00 for Introductory Session
 How research impact is perceived from the perspective of university management is explained along with various data.

14:00-15:00 for Practical Session
 We will discuss what measures can be taken in the process of conducting academic research to make it a high impact. Before the lecture, participants will be presented with a specific theme of the discussion and asked to make preliminary considerations.

2021. 8. 23 Mon 10:00-15:00

Venue: Online by Zoom (URL will be notified after registration.)
 Pre-registration: Required.
 URL: <https://forms.gle/YR1Lbr7rdxo3BYc7>

Organized: TI-FRIS, FRIS
 Contact: Dr. Suzuki or Dr. Fujiwara, research administrators in FRIS / ura@fris.tohoku.ac.jp

