

FRIS/TI-FRIS

Vol.49 Vol.33

Hub Meeting

発表者 : Takuro Ishii (Asst. Prof.)

石井 琢郎 助教

(東北大学 学際科学フロンティア研究所／デバイス・テクノロジー)

Biological Flow Imaging with Ultrasound

Summary

Ultrasound technology is a vital tool in non-invasive organ assessment. Its unique ability to measure and visualize internal body flows, such as blood circulation, is crucial for understanding cardiovascular health and pathology. Recent advancements in medical ultrasonics have improved spatial resolution, enabling imaging of micro-scale flow tracts, and increased temporal resolution to over 1,000 frames per second, capturing complex and transient flow patterns. This presentation will introduce the interdisciplinary efforts behind these ultrasound advancements and how they have provided deeper insights into multi-scale biological flow dynamics.

*Language: English

第49回 FRISハブミーティング/第33回 TI-FRISハブミーティング

2023.

12. 28

11:00 - 12:00

参加登録